

The eternal pursuit

My feet touch the sand, I feel like they're ready, No lacks in my bag,
And conditions are good.
And smiles on our faces as we go,
Our strength now will take us through the road.
Days passed so slowly and we're still together, But my skin is burnt and rocks hurt my bones.
And warmth turns slowly into cold, We just can't remember where we go.
After me you are the one,
But if I need I'll take your hand.
No wasting on you... My priceless time...
Let you break the story. Deep inside myself I feel some good. Run! We're in a hurry!
He's not by your side...
After me you were the one,
But now I found your hand is mine.
Don't worry; it's over, 'cause we are both inside this life. But we waited to forget what we are.
No friendship is needed just will to be one,
And share hope together and hope shared out for everyone.
Walking alone could work well for someone, Sun may be hot but it freezes your soul.
